PROFILE

“Sally Bradley Q.C..... a top Silk..... a class act who is extremely bright and quick on her feet. Opponents who have experienced her in compromising courtroom style speak of her as a bruising cross-examiner who is more than a match for anyone.” (Publication: “Chambers and Partners”)

My primary expertise is in family law matters with particular emphasis on child care work including cases of serious abuse (physical, sexual, emotional), child abduction and adoption. I am instructed on behalf of public bodies and private individuals and I welcome instructions on a publicly funded basis.

I am a member of the North Eastern Circuit where I practise regularly in all Court centres but my practice is nationwide and I appear in Courts throughout England and Wales including Courts in London, Bristol, Cardiff, Birmingham and Manchester. Additionally I have an extensive referral practice in the Court of Appeal and I have appeared in the House of Lords. Through the cases that I have conducted I have acquired a highly specialised knowledge of medical matters affecting children and as a result I also accept instructions in criminal cases involving children when offences of homicide, sexual abuse and cruelty are alleged.

I sit as a Deputy High Court Judge in the Family Division and also as a Recorder conducting family, criminal and civil cases.
